LAKE SIDE CHURCH OF CHRIST

From Joe's Desk... Appreciate the Simple Blessings

April 19th, 2015

When was the last time you found a good shade tree and just relaxed? When was the last time you enjoyed the breeze blowing across your face on a hot day, and listened as the leaves in the tree moved gracefully and musically to the flow of the wind? When was the last time you simply took a deep breath and relaxed?

In Matthew chapter 6, Jesus said, "Look at the birds of the air: they neither sow nor reap nor gather into barns, and yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not of more value than they?" (V. 26; ESV)

This teaching is in the broader context of our need to let anxiety go, trusting in God. There's something else here as well, and that's the fact that God values us so much that He will see to it that our needs are met. Sometimes those needs are big, but many times those needs are met in something simple such as a shade tree - the cool gentle breeze and the moment on a busy day to just breathe in a relaxing moment.

Far too often, when it comes to the area of blessings, we like the proverbial baseball player, are looking for a homerun every time we get up to bat, looking for the "big blessings". Often we feel down and depressed, almost like we are always lacking, because of this. What would our outlook on life be like if we simply learned to appreciate the simple blessings that God gives us? I propose to you that you would be much happier and content as you enjoyed the way God chooses to bless you instead of the way you think He should bless you.

May God bless you today as you walk with HIM!

From Andy's Desk.....Prejudice (James 2)

A family passing through the area on vacation from the Midwest was immediately recognizable. They entered the building during the fellowship time between class and worship, and you could sense that everyone in the vicinity was trying to look and act as if nothing were out of the ordinary. The family of seven; grandparents, parents and three children, were all wearing simple, homemade clothing. The head coverings worn by all the ladies, along with the rest of the clothing they wore, was contrasted by the much flashier clothing worn by "veteran" Christians and the comfortable building we met in. The PowerPoint presentation with the various Holiday parties and social events mixed in with the need for food and clothing for the benevolence of the congregation and community flashed across the two screens in the auditorium. As the family was ushered down to sit on the front pew and worship began, several things began to cross my mind, and I came to the conclusion that I was part of a problem.

In America, publicly accepted prejudice is not usually a big problem. Many people around the world face harsh persecution and prejudice surrounding social status, skin color, or religion, and in some places, people are violently persecuted. The church, however, should not be a place where anyone should feel prejudice. James details some prejudice the poor felt in the first century (Jas 2:1-13). While we may not think of the front pew as the seat of honor, there are still areas of this admonition for which Christians today must be vigilant.

The focus over money and nice clothing may have changed, but in many ways we are still dealing with that in the church today (2:2-3). My assumption of the family detailed above may not be inherently wrong, but as Christians, our focus should never be on what one is wearing, their skin, or how much money they may have in the bank, but rather working to bear one another's load (Gal 6:2).
